Cover image: Graves with bush material roofs and fencing to keep pigs out. Porgera Valley of highlands Papua New Guinea in western Enga Province. Photograph courtesy of Jerry K. Jacka.
CONTENTS

Notes and News .................................................................................................................. 88

Special Issue:
GRAVE MATTERS IN OCEANIA

PENELOPE SCHOEFFEL and MALAMA MELEISEA
Introduction to “Grave Matters in Oceania” ................................................................. 89

JAN RENSEL and ALAN HOWARD
The Culture of Graves on Rotuma ................................................................. 93

PHILIP GIBBS
Grave Business in Enga ........................................................................... 115

JERRY JACKA
Development Conflicts and Changing Mortuary Practices in a New Guinea Mining Area ................................................................. 133

MALAMA MELEISEA and PENELOPE SCHOEFFEL
The Work of the Dead in Samoa: Rank, Status and Property ............. 149

SA‘ILIEMANU LILOMAIAVA-DOKTOR
Changing Morphology of Graves and Burials in Samoa ............... 171

Reviews

Ballantyne, Tony: Entanglements of Empire: Missionaries, Maori, and the Question of the Body. CAROLINE DALEY ......................................................... 187

Petrie, Hazel: Outcasts of the Gods: The Struggle over Slavery in Māori New Zealand. PAERAU WARBRICK ......................................................... 189

Publications Received ......................................................................................... 193

Publications of the Polynesian Society ......................................................... 194